Vandenberg Claims Measure is Inadequate

WASHINGTON, July 29.—The new tax bill, which may plunge congress into the most bitter controversy of the session, was expected to be introduced in the House today.

In preparation for the start of the legislative journey of the new bill, estimated to raise $25,000,000 a year, the full house ways and means committee was called into session today to pass on tentative proposals of Democratic members.

Chairman Doughton (D) of North Carolina, of the committee, will introduce the measure. With "Merry-Go-Round" on Editorial Page

The daily Washington Merry-Go-Round, written by Drew Pearson and Robert Allen, in which events behind the scenes in the nation's capital are reported, will be found each day on "The Herald's editorial page."

The Democratic majority on the committee accepting party responsibility for the measure, there appeared little chance of Republicans forcing changes.

Hearings Scheduled

Senator Harrison (D) of Mississippi, chairman of the senate finance committee, planned to open hearings tomorrow if the house bill is available. He planned to rush hearings so that the senate can take up the bill as soon as it passed the house.

Republican demands that the measure be rewritten to provide $500,000,000 revenue a year or be scrapped entirely were to be made in the house committee.

"Monster" Found to Be Only Sea Lion

GARY, Ind., July 29.—A Lake Michigan "sea monster" that frightened bathers has been identified to the satisfaction of scientists here through the aid of a photograph.

Harold Keyes, an employee of the U. S. engineer's office, of Chicago, informed that the "sea monster" was doing on a breakwater out from Gary harbor, named a rowboat and photographed it.

Experts said his photographs showed the "sea monster" to be nothing more dangerous than a sea lion. It is believed the sea lion escaped from a zoo on the shores of Lake Michigan.

ASHVILLE JOB IS COMPLETED

Main-St. Made Ready For Traffic After 20 Men Work For Week.

(Special to The Herald) ASHVILLE, July 29.—The job of repairing water and sewer services across Main-st. which the village recently took over from Contractors Bartling & Son and C. J. Wetzel was completed last Saturday and the street cleaned and made ready for traffic.

Street Commissioner Weber and a force of about 20 local men started work at Six-to-st. last Monday morning and during the week were held up several times on account of rain, but with this handicap they completed the brick portion of the street to Walnut-st. Extra precaution was taken to have the concrete of proper depth with a sand cushion on top sufficient to furnish the proper foundation for the brick which were carefully laid to grade of the street. Everyone on the job seemed to take a personal interest in getting the work done in workmanlike manner and with the greatest speed commensurate with proper work.

CANNING SCHOOL IS PLANNED HERE FOR THREE DAYS

A three-day canning demonstration and school covering the art of food preservation in the home will be presented in Memorial hall Wednesday, Thursday and Friday from 1:30 to 4 p. m.

Miss May Woods, home economist of the Kerr Glass Corporation, will be in charge of the 3-day demonstration.

The Herald is sponsoring the school in co-operation with the Kerr corporation.

Miss Woods will explain many labor-saving devices and will ask questions regarding difficulties concerning canning, giving time tables and recipes will be distributed to all who attend.

Circleville and community housewives should arrange their week to permit them to attend the demonstrations.

Miss Hanover Hired by Cussins & Fearn

Miss Mary V. Hanover, Ashville, R. I., a graduate of Walnut-twp. school and the Dickinson Memorial school, Columbus, has been named cashier at the local Cussins & Fearn store, replacing Mary Mary Miner, recently by Harold P. McDaniel, store manager.

Miss Hanover, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Hanover, of Columbus, has resigned her position at the C. I. company to become an assistant in the office of Robert G. Colville, county treasurer elect.

Gareth Jones, Lloyd George's Former Aide, and John Goette, INS Writer Held

TOKYO, July 29.—Reports received here today said John Goette, chief of the International News Service bureau at Peking, China, had been kidnapped by Mongolian bandits.

The reports said he was being held for $100,000 ransom.

The influential Tokyo newspaper Yomiuri, one of the largest Japanese daily publications, expressed concern over the reports and instructed its correspondents in the area to cooperate with International News Service representatives in an effort to effect Goette's release.

PEIPING, July 29.—Gareth Jones, 30, British newspaperman and former secretary to David Lloyd George, British statesman, was captured by Chinese bandits today.

Jones was abducted near Pao-chang, in northeast Kaigun province.

The British embassy immediately intervened for Jones' release.

EX-COUNTY SCHOOL MAN IS DIVORCED

week adding greater danger to loss by spoilage. Many farmers believe corn that is not too heavy will straighten but that is broken will be a complete loss. It is believed about 50 per cent of the wheat in this county is still to be threshed.

Culvert Washed Out

Streams of the county were turned into torrents by the deluge and a culvert on Route 277, the Chillicothe-Mt. Sterling road, near Atlanta, was washed out. The culvert was not carried away but both approaches were undermined isolating the bridge. There is no stream at this location, all the water coming from fields and pouring into a ditch. The highway department announced that the road would be closed to traffic for several days while repairs are made.

The Ringgold-pk was damaged near the John L. May residence. Numerous roads were under water for a short time Sunday evening when ditches were unable to carry off the storm water. Hargus creek came within inches of crossing Watt-st near the Lancaster-pk bridge. Every city intersection resembled a miniature lake. Many of the sewers were unable to carry off all the water and some backed up into cellars in several sections of the city.

DAVEY HEADLINES CLARKSBURG DAY

An address by Governor Martin L. Davey headlines the program arranged for Clarksburg's annual field day at Hurst's grove Thursday.

The celebration is sponsored by the Men's Bible class and Ladies Aid of the Clarksburg M. E. church. The program includes a baseball game, model airplane flights, pony races, greased pole climb, and other athletic events for prizes.

Music will be furnished by the bands of Bambridge, Frankfort and Clarksburg schools. The grounds will be lighted for the evening and a program of dances any music will be presented.

BLACKSMITH HURT

Stanley Doby, Ashville blacksmith, is suffering with a badly bruised right foot. The injury was sustained while Doby was shoeing a horse last week at the farm of Corville Vance near Gray station. The horse, a large one, became restless and landed with full force on Doby's foot.

DAUGHTERS HUNTED

Members of the family have been making efforts to locate two daughters of George F. Meyers, 71, who died Saturday after a stroke.

The daughters, Miss Helen and Mrs. Thelma Bowman, are touring the east.

Their father is a retired salesman and a native of Stoutsville.

County Auditor Forrest Short went barefooted to reach his auto Sunday evening. The storm sewer in front of his house was unable to take care of all the water and formed a pond around his car, parked on Pleasant-st.

LEGION QUITS HOME INQUIRY

Committee Leaves Xenia Investigation to Gov. Davey's Commission.

XENIA, July 29.—The investigating committee of the Ohio American Legion, named by Commander William Konold to probe conditions at the Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home here, retired from the scene today and left the field clear for Gov. Martin L. Davey's committee of probers, also investigating conditions at the home.

The Legion committee, headed by R. G. Ingersoll of Warren, left after conferring with H. L. Hays, superintendent of the Home. They did not indicate when they would return to the institution.

Members of the Legion group did not wait to meet with Col. Gilson D. Light, chairman of the governor's committee, who invited the veterans' group to join with the state committee in conducting the investigation.

Light's committee is charged with responsibility of investigating charges that there are almost as many employees at the Home as there are inmates.

The Legion group, however, was appointed by Konold to determine whether Davey's slash of the institution budget will cripple operations.

In Ingersoll's committee is W. A. Walls, Kent school superintendent, the man picked by Davey as state relief director, later sent back home when the federal government took over relief.

FEDERAL MEN HUNT FOR BOY

Two-year-old Son of Poor Parents Missing Week; Revenge is Blamed.

SPOKANE, Wash., July 29.—G-Men of the department of justice—the ace manhunters of the United States took over the search today for 2-year old Bobby Rush, believed kidnapped a week ago in a revenge plot against his poor parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Rush of Coeur D'Alene, Idaho.

The baby disappeared from a picnic grounds in Sage Creek-co, Idaho.

Mrs. Rush was unable to aid authorities in their theory of a "revenge kidnapping." She said she knew of no one who entertained a grudge against her family.

However, Idaho state and county police are convinced the sender of the message was motivated by revenge because the Rush family is not wealthy and has been on Idaho relief rolls.

It was the third time within a week death had claimed an attachment of the auditors office here.

Louis J. Guthrie, bond clerk, died last Wednesday, and Harry L. Kline, deputy auditor for 12 years, succumbed yesterday.

VILLAGERS CHECK LIGHTS ON AUTOS

There was a big run on automobile light bulbs in Ashville filling stations and accessory stores last Saturday night occasioned by the visit of several state highway patrol officers and Deputy Sheriff Miller Fissell. They visited the village on a check-up of drivers of one-eyed automobiles.

No arrests were made but the drivers were directed to correct any fault in their lighting systems.

Many Stories of Narrow Escapes Told

LANCASTER, July 29.—One life was lost, hundreds were driven from their homes and countless thousands of dollars in damage was wrought by the worst flood in the Hocking valley since 1913, a check-up showed today.

Waters of the Hocking river and its numerous tributaries has ceased rising, but the flood waters were slow to recede from the miles of inundated residence and farm land.

While many narrow escapes from drowning were reported, thus far there has been but one fatality.

Grocer is Victim

Clarkson Carpenter, 53, Lancaster grocer, drowned near Rock-bridge in Hocking-co south of here while rescue parties were trying to save him. He had been marooned on an old bridge.

Two men in a boat reached Carpenter and took him aboard, but he apparently was so frightened that he stood up in the small craft, upsetting it. He drowned and the other two men narrowly escaped with their lives.

Carpenter's body has not been recovered. The men who tried to save him were Grant Hensel and Jack Root, of Rockbridge.

Residents of Lancaster described the deluge as the worst flood to hit this section since 1913, and many thought it surpassed the one two decades ago in destruction wrought.

West and South Lancaster were hardest hit. They were still under several feet of water.

At Bremen, O., nearby, the water rose so high it was possible to swim down the main street.

Kitchen Opened

Responding to the call for succor to the hundreds of families deprived of their entire belongings, Lancaster city officials opened up a soup kitchen downtown.

Long lines of men, women and children filed past with tin cups for the first food they have had in 24 hours.

From the federal relief agency Lancaster obtained 100 mattresses which will be laid on floors of empty store-rooms here, where

Waters of the Hocking river and its numerous tributaries has ceased rising, but the flood waters were slow to recede from the miles of inundated residence and farm land.

While many narrow escapes from drowning were reported, thus far there has been but one fatality.

Grocer is Victim

Clarkson Carpenter, 53, Lancaster grocer, drowned near Rock-bridge in Hocking-co south of here while rescue parties were trying to save him. He had been marooned on an old bridge.

Two men in a boat reached Carpenter and took him aboard, but he apparently was so frightened that he stood up in the small craft, upsetting it. He drowned and the other two men narrowly escaped with their lives.

Carpenter's body has not been recovered. The men who tried to save him were Grant Hensel and Jack Root, of Rockbridge.

Residents of Lancaster described the deluge as the worst flood to hit this section since 1913, and many thought it surpassed the one two decades ago in destruction wrought.

West and South Lancaster were hardest hit. They were still under several feet of water.

At Bremen, O., nearby, the water rose so high it was possible to swim down the main street.

Kitchen Opened

Responding to the call for succor to the hundreds of families deprived of their entire belongings, Lancaster city officials opened up a soup kitchen downtown.

Long lines of men, women and children filed past with tin cups for the first food they have had in 24 hours.

From the federal relief agency Lancaster obtained 100 mattresses which will be laid on floors of empty store-rooms here, where

SUPREME COURT FORECAST

WHEN JUDGE HAROLD M. STEPHENS, of Utah, was nominated by President Roosevelt a few days ago for associate justice of the court of appeals for the District of Columbia, capital newsmen did not find it necessary to ask who he was. Only three weeks ago they had written of his appointment as assistant to the attorney general of the United States.

Washington observers say this: Watch Judge Harold M. Stephens when there is a vacancy on the supreme court of the United States.

Many suits testing the constitutionality of laws originated in the District of Columbia court of appeals and must be reviewed by the appeals court before they can be taken to the supreme court. Before Judge Stephens was made assistant to the attorney general he was for two years assistant attorney general in charge of the anti-trust division of the department of justice.

He was highly commended by President Roosevelt for work he accomplished in this post.

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS

IN vetoing the act of the Illinois legislature which would have exempted Illinois newspapermen from compulsory revelation to courts and grand juries of the source of confidential information, Governor Horner explained his action by saying that this safeguard is not necessary, for the reason that "liberty of the press is one of our cherished institutions."

That such a necessity actually exists is established by the fact that even now a New York City reporter is under sentence to jail for contempt of court involving his refusal to divulge the source of information.

Freedom of the press is, as Governor Horner declared, a cherished principle of our government. Unfortunately, however, there is a wealth of experience to prove that it is easily set aside when expediency demands.

FUTILE PARTISAN DRIVE

UNLESS the third party advocates can do better than they did during their recent Chicago confab, they cannot hope to make much of a showing in the presidential contest of 1936. Thus far the disgruntled liberals have merely put forward a lot of group prejudices in the hope that there may be an immediate consolidation of the forces of unrest and dissipation.

The chief reason why a third party movement cannot hope to get anywhere at the present time is the lack of popular leadership. Huey Long looms as the most likely candidate. And what a chance would he have to accomplish that which proved to be beyond reach of such potent progressives as Theodore Roosevelt and the original Robert M. LaFollette?

EVERYONE sometimes makes mistakes. Followers of every game and sport may have days or even weeks of slump in efficiency, or course less able bridge players require little to throw them off. Bidding went: South, 1-Spade; naturally West passed, hoping to hear more spade bidding; North, 2-No Trumps; South, 3-No Trumps, which West doubled, as a signal for his partner to lead through the spade hand. Everyone knew what was meant, but partner could not oblige.

Holding clubs as his hopes for re-entry cards, East led the 6 of diamonds and dummy's 7 held the trick, removing West's only card of the suit led. North's chances to go game are too vague to justify anything except an attempt to minimize loss, as he was vulnerable. His most normal play was to lead a small spade from dummy toward the J. West's best strategy would be to give the declarer side the first two tricks in spades, after which North would not dare lead the suit again. Instead of leading spades the J of hearts was led, which the K-Q-J missing. All West had to do to kill that suit was refuse to cover with the K, but he covered. The Ace won the second trick. Of course North led back the 8. East's 9 and dummy's 10 covered. Declarer then risked losing two tricks, by leading the 2, with the Q-7 missing. Luckily the play dovetailed both those dangerous cards or declarer would have suffered severely through his weird strategy.

East led another diamond, hoping that his partner held the missing 5, but West let go his lowest spade and dummy's K won the trick, then South took his good heart, forcing West to discard another spade. Declarer let go his lowest club and so did East. Declarer had done well, winning 5 of the 6 tricks played. When a low spade was led, West should have won with the Q and led the 10 of clubs, but he allowed declarer's J to win the eighth trick, after dummy's last re-entry had gone through previous play of the Ace of diamonds, upon which West let go his lowest club. North led off his K of clubs. East's Ace won the trick. East led his J of diamonds. Dummy discarded a spade and West let go his last club.

Declarer was in at the tenth trick with his Q of diamonds, having won 8 tricks to opponents 2. He led his good Q of clubs, giving him game. The last two tricks had to be given defenders, whether a spade or a club was led. Careless defense and luck allowed North's bad strategy to win

THE DEVIL'S MANSION

READ THIS FIRST:

Driving through a terrific thunderstorm in western Canada, Blair Rodman skids off the road and into a ditch. A light through the trees beckons him. Blair comes upon a large house but a homely woman servant refuses to admit him. Forcing his way in, the mistress of the house, a strange-looking person, says she can do nothing for him. A huge, fierce dog appears. Blair runs from the house when the animal leaps at him and returns to his crippled car. Blair walks several miles before finding a town and a shelter. Next morning he goes to a garage to have his car towed from the ditch. McClure, the owner, tells him there are "devils" in the "big house". McClure tells Blair that a Miss Boisevain, a strange woman, lives in the old house with only a servant named Nita and that he takes groceries to her regularly but never sees her. (NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 6

McCLURE, THE garage man, drove a truck out of his garage, threw some rope into it and waited for Blair to get in. Just as he was turning out of the narrow driveway the bus from Winston stopped and a girl got out of the front seat, while the driver holsted two suitcases out of the back compartment. She stood puzzled for a moment, then went up to the truck where the two men were sitting.

"Where can I find Mr. McClure?" she asked softly.

"That's me."

"Miss Boisevain . . . do you know her?"

"I wrote me that a Mr. McClure would take me up to her place, a few miles beyond Boisevain. I am Janet Lord, and I'm to be her companion." She smiled engagingly.

McClure looked her up and down before he answered. Blair saw a slight frown touch his open, frank face.

"Why, yes, I suppose I can. In fact I am on my way there with Mr. Rodman. You can hop in. I'll tell the bus driver to bring your bags."

Blair slipped out of the small seat, intending to sit behind, when the girl motioned him back. "I'll sit in back. I'll be fun."

"Oh, that's all right."

"Can't I sit back with you? I'm afraid you might fall, and there isn't room for three in the front."

"Surely." With that, she climbed into the back, on top of one of her suitcases which the bus driver had just brought. As soon as she was settled, she pulled off her sagging felt hat, and ran her fingers lightly through her yellow, short hair, as if it was a tremendous relief to get the light hat off.

"I've worn it all day," she apologized, and her eyes met Blair's . . . big, violet eyes, with a hint of fatigue in them.

Blair thought, too pale, and her skin shone luminously. Thin, almost too thin she seemed, and her hands when she drew off her gloves were slender and as fragile as delicate china.

She closed her eyes and drank in the fresh clean air. Lashes of dark brown swept her cheeks, touching the faintly dark rings under her eyes. There was a childish, elfish look about the girl, as she sat there, her hands limp on her knees, her head thrown back. A small nose, a small crimson mouth, slightly turned up at the corners . . . cheeks that held no color at all . . . these and her boyish figure made Blair think of her as a child. Everything about her except her eyes suggested extreme youth. Her eyes seemed older than her body, infinitely older.

A simple dark suit, blue, with a bit of white at the neck was almost too warm for the summer day. Janet Lord fanned her face with her handkerchief and unbuttoned her short jacket.

"Hot, isn't it?" she said simply, in a tired small voice.

"Rather. I haven't told you my name. It's Blair Rodman, and my car is stuck in the mud up by Miss Boisevain's. I had to walk six miles last night in the storm and mud, so that's why I look like a tramp."

The truck jerked along and once the girl put her hand on Blair's arm to steady herself. She took it away immediately, however, and Blair saw a flush of color on her pale cheeks.

"Poor kid, going up to that house, and that woman! Blair wondered why she was going, and if she knew anything about Miss Boisevain. She might be a distant relative . . . or a slight acquaintance . . ."

At any rate, he mused, her. But his pity changed in an instant to interest when a slight wind blew her blond hair over her eyes, and she pushed the bright strands back gracefully with her fingers. Lovely hair, and with the sun on it, it glittered like spun gold . . .

"Do you know Miss Boisevain?" he asked abruptly.

"No, do you?"

"No," the man answered abruptly. After all he didn't know Miss Boisevain; had never even known her name until he came upon McClure.

"No, I don't," he repeated. "I'm a stranger here. But you—how do you happen to be going to such a lonely place? For you must know it's lonely in these hills."

"Oh, I'm going to love it!" Her eyes sparkled, and her hands clasped tightly in her lap. "You see, I've never been in a place like this before. Never. Not even in the country. And I'm tired of the city, and hammering a typewriter all day long. I've stood it now for four years, day in and day out from eight o'clock in the morning until five at night, working every minute in a big office where I'm just one of fifty girls who do the same thing. Then, I work at night, too . . ."

"I'm sick and tired of the grind, and always I've planned to go away and do something else . . . I didn't know what it would be . . . but I knew I would go. My . . . obligations are all paid now, every cent of them, so I'm free to do as I please, as long as I can make some of a living for myself. For besides working all day at the office, I've been working four and five nights a week, too, to make extra money. But I don't need to any more . . . I'm free. I thought this position with Miss Boisevain would rest me for six months or so, until I get a new grip on life. So, until I saw her ad in the paper, I answered it and got the job."

"Her ad . . . did she put an ad in the paper?"

"Yes, in the Press in Vancouver."

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

The longest shooting schedule ever allowed a single picture on the First National lot, was arranged for "Gold Diggers of 1935," now showing at the Grand Theatre.

The newest of First National musical spectacles started working before the cameras late in September and was not completed until almost February, a production schedule of four full months.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Starred with George Raft in his second film, Ben Bernie together with his lads appears in "Stolen Harmony," now at the Cliftona Theatre, in his best clowning and musical mood.

The picture, featuring a new score by those wizards of the keyboard, Mack Gordon and Harry Revel, blends music with comedy and closes on a dramatic note.

Ben Bernie, in "Stolen Harmony," leads his lads and lassies on a transcontinental barnstorming tour in a large bus.

One of the members of the band is Raft, an ex-convict whom Bernie has given a job in an effort to help the lad go straight. When money is missing things look bad for Raft, but Grace Bradley, also a member of the troupe, persuades him to stick it out and clear himself.

AT THE CIRCLE

The Richard Walters of "The Last Mile" screen drama coming to the Circle Theatre is portrayed by Howard Phillips, who created the juvenile lead in the original production of the dramatic sensation whose gripping scenes literally lifted Broadway audiences out of their chairs.

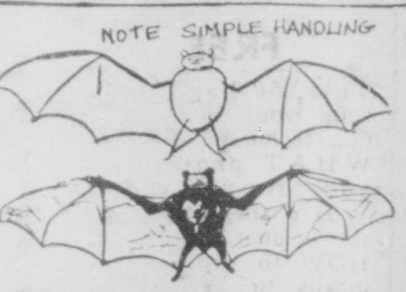

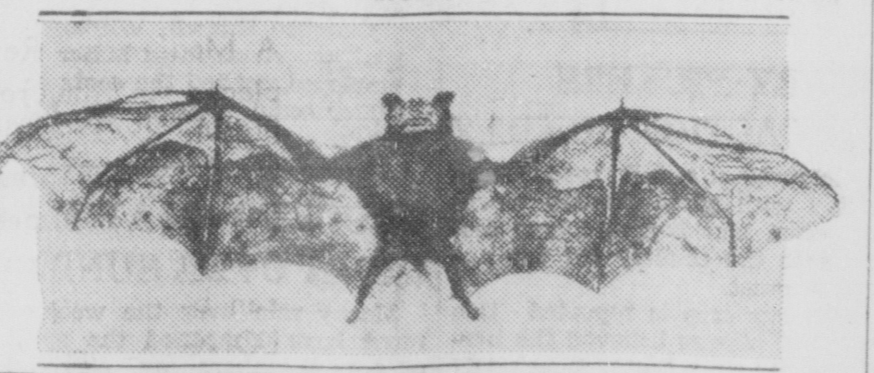

The weight of the earth is estimated to be 6,000 billions of billions of tons.

NATURE PRESENTS

Bat (Vampire)

PHYSICAL FEATURES

Three inches long with wing-spread of 28 inches; broad head with wide mouth; small eyes wide apart and tall, pointed, triangular ears; strong arms and delicate fingers; short legs with five sharp toes. Color—golden brown.

TODAY'S DRAWING LESSON

The only mammal that can really fly, the bat is dazzled by the sunlight but can see marvelously well at night. His wings are formed by the lengthening of the fingers of his "hands", across which is stretched a tough membrane. The vampire bat, or blood-sucker, comes down on fanning wings in the dead of night and shaves away the skin of a sleeping animal with his very sharp, keen-edged teeth. Most mother bats carry their young on their backs until they are old enough to fly.

Central Bank Bill Simply Question of Government or Bankers Control

WASHINGTON—The story of what all the shooting is about in the Senate over the central bank bill can be told in these words—

Shall the credit structure of the country continue to be ruled by the private bankers, or shall control be vested in the hands of the government?

That is all there is to it. The entire fight centers on the make-up of the pivotal credit-controlling agency—The Open Market Committee.

This Committee, under the new bill will rule the open market sale and purchase of government bonds. In other words, it will hold the throttle of government credit, the crux of the financial system of the country.

As the bill emerged from the House Banking Committee and was approved by the House, the membership of this key agency was made up of the seven members of the Federal Reserve Board, all government officials appointed by the President with Senate approval.

But in the Senate Banking Committee a combination of Old Guard Democrats and Republicans, led by Virginia's Carter Glass, wiped out this clear-cut governmental control.

The pro-banker bloc did not dare go the whole hog and set up outright private banker domination. But they did so by indirection.

In place of the Federal Reserve Board making up the Open Market Committee was substituted a milk-and-water combination of the seven Reserve Board members plus five bankers chosen by the privately-owned Reserve banks.

On the surface this would appear a fairly acceptable compromise—seven government representatives against five bankers.

Actually, however, the line-up would mean banker control. Experience repeatedly has shown that at least two of the Reserve Board members always line up with the bankers.

Big Jim

Big bald, bland Jim Farley may be about to retire as Postmaster General, but he is neglecting no tricks regarding the vote registration of New York.

A total of 1200 New Yorkers now have landed cushy government jobs in Washington, and the ever-watchful Big Jim wants their votes to count.

So, since they cannot count in the voteless District of Columbia, Jim is planning a special excursion. During the week-end from August 16 to 18 special rates will be given to New York's 1,200 to take the train home for registration. Once they register they can vote by mail. But after August it will be too late.

Leave it to big bald, bland, ever-watchful Jim Farley.

Came the Dawn

One thing can be said for "Hell-Roading Dick" Dickinson—he does not let principles interfere with his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

The big, lumbering Iowa senator has been one of the bitterest foes of the AAA.

Throughout the existence of the New Deal, he has waged unceasing warfare against it. In the 1934 Congress he took a leading role in shelving a group of Administration-sponsored amendments to extend the scope of the AAA.

When the bill, in modified form, again came before the Senate, Dickinson blasted it with shot and shell.

Throughout the twelve days that it was before the chamber he was in the forefront of the opposition, exhorting the AAA, talking against the legislation and giving enthusiastic support to every proposal aimed at hamstringing its operation.

But when the Senate finally got down to the concluding roll-call, Dickinson ducked the showdown. A few minutes before the vote was taken he slipped quietly out of the Senate.

Note: Explanation for Dickinson's squeamishness is the fact that the farm-belt is decidedly pro-AAA. Witness: The recent "grass-roots" Republican conference did not dare pass resolutions condemning the Democratic crop-benefit program.

News-Stand Deficit

Jim Farley and Emil Hurja do not care how they run up news bills as long as the Democratic National Committee pays for them. Here are their news-stand bills at the Mayflower Hotel as recorded by the Committee:

January—$44.13.
February—$90.05.
March—$114.45.

Note—The Mayflower news-stand charges five cents for all New York newspapers. The unpaid deficit of the Democratic National Committee as of March 1 was $441,976.75.

Infantile Paralysis Cases Reported From Early Times

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

TWO EPIDEMICS of infantile paralysis have been reported in the United States this summer, the most serious one being in Los Angeles.

Naturally announcements of this sort in the newspapers cause a great deal of public alarm and excitement. People plan to move their children away from the epidemic district, and institute all kinds of protective measures, some sensible, some futile.

For we always have a few sporadic cases of Hippocrates, the father of medicine, occurrence of the disease under certain weather conditions is emphasized.

And this has been going on for as long a time as the memory of man reacheth to. In some of the earliest medical writings, those of Hippocrates, the father of medicine, occurrence of the disease under certain weather conditions is emphasized.

Extensive studies in our own time clearly show that epidemics occur in warm weather. Few cases break out in either the Arctic circle or the equatorial regions. In the temperate regions, the hot months, north of the equator, are from May to September, but in those south of the equator, the hot months are January to May. Now, the peak of incidence of infantile paralysis epidemics in the United States is in August. In Australia and New Zealand, on the contrary, the seasonal peak is in March. Even in the United States there are variations due to climate, our southern states having their epidemics earlier in the summer than the northern states.

Besides climate, age plays a large role in the determination of cases, but this is changing. In the 1916 epidemic in New York City only five per cent (roughly) it varied week by week) of those attacked were over 10 years old. In the 1931 epidemic in New York there were sometimes as many as 30 per cent over 10 years of age. So perhaps the "infantile" part of the condition is changing.

These facts and others to be discussed tomorrow, help us to understanding and protection.

SEVEN KILLED; SURVEY SHOWS

60 Fatally Injured in Nation; Wreck Near Findlay Fatal To Five.

By International News Service
Seven of the 60 persons fatally injured in scattered traffic accidents in 16 states over the week-end were killed in Ohio, a check-up by International News Service revealed today.

The most serious Ohio accident occurred eleven miles north of Findlay early yesterday. Two Cleveland detectives, their prisoner, another man and his sister were killed when two automobiles collided at a junction.

The victims: Harold E. Beings, 28, and Harry McCue, 33, Cleveland detectives; Clarence Elderson, 27, Cleveland water department clerk; William Rinehart, 21, and his sister, Miss Carrie Rinehart, 27, both of near Findlay.

Grant Joselyn, 26, Conneaut, O., civil engineer in the state highway department, and Miss Rose Ellen Reed, 19, of near Findlay riding with the Rineharts, were injured seriously.

Mrs. Diana Lockspeiser, 45, was injured fatally in Cleveland last night when she ran from behind a street car into the path of another street car, according to police.

Genevieve Clark, 5, was killed instantly at Wilfrie, near Youngstown, when she ran into the path of one automobile while trying to avoid another.

REPUBLICANS

mittee have denounced the tentative inheritance, gift, individual income and corporation taxes as but "a drop in the bucket" with the nation's deficit running $3,500,000,000 a year.

Rep. Crowther (R) of New York led a fight to combine a tax bill providing a half billion revenue with a pledge on the part of the administration to begin slashing expenses, so that the budget can be balanced within five years.

The tentative measure was denounced by Senator Vandenberg (R) of Michigan as wholly inadequate.

He demanded that tax legislation be postponed until next winter on the ground that congress cannot legislate intelligently until it sees next year's budget.

The Michigan senator said the proposed house bill would not provide enough revenue to run the government during the length of time the committee has considered the measure.

The possibility that congress would take the ball from President Roosevelt and run away with the tax program increased. In a last-minute change, house way and means Democrats favored going down to incomes of $50,000 for more taxes. Mr. Roosevelt's recommendation on this point was for a boost on incomes over $1,000,000 a year.

HEGELE STARS AS ONG CREW WINS HONORS

Local Youth Pitches Team
Into Division Title; Company Wins Tug-of-War.

The medical detachment of the 37th division special troops returned home from a 15-day period at Camp Perry, and brought with them many honors. The outfit was under the supervision of Dr. E. R. Austin.

The outfit's soft ball team won the division championship but lost the camp title to the 112th division. In winning the division title the local detachment defeated the tanks, military police, signal company and ordnance company.

Bill Hegele did all the pitching for the team with Thompson catching. Hegele only recently joined the National guard.

In the division track meet Hegele won further honors, matching first place in the pole vault and the high hurdles.

The detachment's tug-of-war team won the camp title.

The motor transport outfit, which remain in camp another week, embarks tonight on its quest for championships. Four members of the outfit, Gaines Hill, Willie Gaines, Don Brannon and Merle Davis are seeking boxing championships.

There are a number of other athletes in the motor transport outfit so that crew may bring home many medals.

The medics reported a fine camp period.

Dries Field.

The recreation ball schedule this week will be thrown back at least one day because of wet grounds. The SOE Electric Co. field is too wet for baseball today and needs a lot of sunshine before play can be resumed Tuesday evening.

If the field is fit for play Tuesday, the Pickaway Dairy and Circleville Oil teams will tangle with Cities Service Oils and Purina Chows meeting on Wednesday.

TWO COUNTY MEN WIN PRIZE MONEY

COLUMBUS, July 29—Two Pickaway-co men who killed crooks in connection with Ohio's crow banding program will receive prize money from the state, it was announced here today by the State Division of Conservation.

They are G. R. Deffenbaugh, of Circleville, R. F. D., who will receive a $1 prize, and W. B. Grabill, of R. F. D. 1, Orient, who will get a cash prize of $2.

The crow banding program was started last spring when 124 crows were banded with leg bands which contained numbers that would pay from $1 to $25 if the crows were killed and bands returned to the Conservation division.

FOUR-YEAR-OLD CHAMPION

Jack Sords

'TEERING OFF'

Circleville golfers are looking forward to a real match Wednesday afternoon, when London golfers appear for an inter-city contest beginning at 1 o'clock.

The weekend crowds were the largest in a long while. Fifty-five played Saturday afternoon and there were more than that Sunday morning. The rain stopped activity Sunday afternoon.

The ladies are taking a lot of interest in club activities and are getting ready for a ladies' day. They are getting into form for the Scotch two-ball foursome on Sunday at 1 p. m.

The qualifier for the club championship is over. The finalists are as follows: John Jenkins, 36-78, 74; John Mager, 38-57, 75; Lou Vining, 41-39, 80; Dewey Black, 42-40, 82; C. R. Barnhart, 44-41, 85; and F. R. Caldwell, 45-40, 86.

North Schenckel, Chillicothe golfer, was low for Sunday with a 40-56, 76. Lou Vining, 40-56, 76 and John Mager, 42-37, 79. Carl Bennett had the "biggest" score, 59-57, 116.

John W. Eschman was reported to have been kicked about his round of 57 and became so determined that he faced the second nine in his usual form, snatching a 42.

The greens committee chairman, C. T. Gilmore, proved the greens are in good shape by handing out a one putt green on No. 5 and eight 1-putt greens to win the low putts with 13-13, 26. However, the dark horse, Frank Marion, wasn't to be outdone so he grabbed a no-putt on No. 8 and also 10-1-putts to tie for first. John Bragg went into the runner-up position with a 13 and 15, 28.

Blind holes high on Nos. 5, 9, 10 and 14 were won by George Meyers with 8-9-9-8. Blind holes high on Nos. 1, 17, 13, 6 was held by Harold Grant, 8-9-8-8. Most putts won by Carl Bennett with 22-21, 43.

The usual twilight tournament will be held Tuesday at 6 p. m.

Levinsky's Boss Claims Louis to Feel Knock-out

ROUND LAKE, Ill., July 29.—"If anyone is knocked out it will be Joe Louis and not King Levinsky."

The author of this bold assertion was mid-nannered, seriously-miened Harold Steinman, Levinsky's manager. Steinman is one of the few completely rational inhabitants of this strange retreat where the bustling fish-boy is preparing himself for heaven knows what at the hands of the negro dynamiter on the night of August 7.

But Steinman is serious and in view of the bewildering events which dot the history of the prize-ring there may be something in what he says.

"If there is a knockout," he said, "you will see Louis on the floor, not the King. I base this prediction on several things. The King is in better condition for this fight than he has been in years. Right now, he weighs 198. When he beat Jack Sharkey, he weighed 206.

"Both Louis and the King fought Hans Birkie. The King knocked Birkie cold in the fifth round. Louis won a technical knockout in the sixth round."

About THIS and THAT By the Second Guesser

Giants Versus Tigers?

It looks very much as though the Giants and Tigers will vie for the world's baseball title. Both teams are in the midst of real spurts, both have powerful ball clubs and both are led by smart managers, Bill Terry and Mike Cochrane.

Castlemans Returns

The Giants, aided by the return of young Clyde Castlemans, whipped the Dodgers twice Sunday by the shutout method. The Tigers again beat Cleveland. The Cubs continued on the heels of the Giants but are faced with trips to Pittsburgh and then to Cutham.

MILLERS CLIMB IN AA STANDING

COLUMBUS, July 29. Minnopolis pulled away from Indianapolis and Columbus over the weekend to enjoy a three and one-half game lead today over the second place Indians, and a five and one-half advantage over the Red Birds in the American association standings.

The Millers widened their margin of lead by swamping Toledo, 22 to 8, in the opener of a double-header and coming back with a 5 to 0 win over the Hens in the night cap.

Indianapolis hit a snag in Kansas City, the Indians taking the first contest, 6 to 5, in 12 innings and dropping the second, 11 to 8.

Divide Twin Bill

The Birds also split a twin bill with St. Paul, the Ohioans winning the opener, 4 to 1, only to watch the Saints push them around, 7 to 2, in the closer.

Only the Minnopolis 6 o'clock loss saved the Millers from defeat in the second game, which went eight innings officially. Toledo scored five runs in the first of the ninth but the score was reverted to the eighth inning status because of the closing law.

In the opener, the Millers established a new hitting record for the season, peeling out 26 hits.

where anything may happen. St. Louis lost ground when Paul Dean, subbing for Bill Walker in the ninth frame with the paths loaded, walked in the winning run. Dizzy had beaten the Pirates in the opener.

Griffith Ball-Carrier

John Griffith, George Griffith's huddling son, will be given every chance to make good in the backfield of the high school team this fall. Coach Elmer Reger has intimated Griffith's high-stepping has been lost as a line-man and he may be able to help a lot as a ball-carrier. Reger's big jobs this fall will be to develop a kicker and a line.

Thomas Leads Again

This poll being conducted by the Chicago Tribune to select a coach for the all-star collegiate team is a hot one with as many votes being cast for coach as for players. Frank Thomas of the University of Alabama is leading by a short margin with Elmer Layden of Notre Dame second, Dr. C. W. Spears of Wisconsin third, Bernie Bierman of Minnesota fourth, Charles Bachman of Michigan State fifth, and Bo McMillen of Indiana sixth.

FRANK CASEY SETS RECORD

Frank Casey, former pro at Pickaway Country club, set a new course record at Snow Hill Country club, Wilmington, over the weekend that will probably stand for many years.

Casey traveled the course in 68, the previous record having been 67 established by Clem Weidman, Portsmouth pro, several years ago during an exhibition match.

Five birdies and an eagle were made by Casey in establishing the new record and his drives traveled from 225 to 275 yards.

HEGELE STARS AS ONG CREW WINS HONORS

Local Youth Pitches Team
Into Division Title; Company Wins Tug-of-War.

The medical detachment of the 37th division special troops returned home from a 15-days' period at Camp Perry, and brought with them many honors. The outfit was under the supervision of Dr. E. R. Austin.

The outfit's soft ball team won the division championship but lost the camp title to the 121st division medicals. Col. H. D. Jackson's division. In winning the division title the local detachment defeated the tanks, military police, signal company and ordnance company.

Bill Hegele did all the pitching for the team with Thompson catching. Hegele only recently joined the National guard.

In the division track meet Hegele won further honors snatching first place in the pole vault and the high hurdles.

The detachment's tug-of-war team won the camp title.

The motor transport outfit, which remain in camp another week, embarks tonight on its quest for championships. Four members of the outfit, Gaines Hill, Willie Gaines, Don Brannon and Merle Davis are seeking boxing championships.

There are a number of other athletes in the motor transport outfit so that crew may bring home many medals.

The medics reported a fine camp period.

'TEEING OFF'

Circleville golfers are looking forward to a real match Wednesday afternoon when London golfers appear for an inter-club contest beginning at 1 o'clock.

The week-end crowds were the largest in a long while. Fifty-five played Saturday afternoon and there were more than that Sunday morning. The rain stopped activity Sunday afternoon.

The ladies are taking a lot of interest in club activities and are getting ready for a ladies' day. They are getting into form for the Scotch two-ball foursome on Sunday at 1 p. m.

The qualifier for the club championship is over. The medalists are as follows: John Jenkins, 36-38, 74; John Mader, 38-37, 75; Lou Vining, 41-39, 80; Dewey Black, defending champion, 39-44, 83; C. R. Barnhart, 44-41, 85; and F. R. Caldwell, 46-40, 86.

Norb Seidensticker, Chillicothe golfer, was low for Sunday with a 40-36, 76. Lou Vining carded 40-36, 79 and John Mader, 42-37, 79. Carl Bennett had the "biggest" score, 59-57, 116.

John W. Eschelman was reported to have been kidded about his round of 57 and became so determined that he laced the second nine in his usual form, snatching a 42.

The greens committee chairman, C. T. Gilmore, proved the greens are in good shape by banging out a one-putt green on No. 5 and eight 1-putt greens to win the low putts with 13-13, 26. However, the dark horse, Frank Marion, wasn't to be outdone so he grabbed a no-putt on No. 8 and also 10-1-putts to tie for first. John Bragg went into the runner-up position with a 13 and 15, 28.

Blind holes high, on Nos. 5, 9, 10 and 14 were won by George Meyers with 8-9-9-8. Blind holes high on Nos. 1, 17, 13, 6 was held by Harold Grant, 8-9-8-8. Most putts won by Carl Bennett with 22-21, 43.

The usual twilight tournament will be held Tuesday at 6 p. m.

Levinsky's Boss Claims Louis to Feel Knock-out

ROUND LAKE, Ill., July 29.—"If anyone is knocked out it will be Joe Louis and not King Levinsky."

The author of this bold assertion was mild-mannered, seriously-miened Harold Steinman, Levinsky's manager. Steinman is one of the few completely rational inhabitants of this strange retreat where the blustering fish-bowl is preparing himself for heaven knows what at the hands of the negro dynamiter on the night of August 7.

But Steinman is serious and in view of the bewildering events

which dot the history of the prize-ring there may be something in what he says.

"If there is a knock-out," he said, "you will see Louis on the floor—not the King. I base this prediction on several things. The King is in better condition for this fight than he has been in years. Right now, he weighs 198. When he beat Jack Sharkey, he weighed 206.

"Both Louis and the King fought Hans Birkie. The King knocked Birkie cold in the fifth round. Louis won a technical knockout in the sixth round."

About THIS and THAT By the Second Guesser

Giants Versus Tigers?

It looks very much as though the Giants and Tigers will vie for the world's baseball title—Both teams are in the midst of real spurts, both have powerful ball clubs and both are led by smart managers, Bill Terry and Mike Cochrane.

Castleman Returns

The Giants, aided by the return of young Cydell Castleman, whipped the Dodgers twice Sunday by the shutout method. The Tigers again beat Cleveland. The Cubs continued on the heels of the Giants but are faced with trips to Pittsburgh and then to Gotham.

MILLERS CLIMB IN AA STANDING

COLUMBUS, July 29.—Minneapolis pulled away from Indianapolis and Columbus over the week-end to enjoy a three and one-half game lead today over the second place Indians and a five and one-half advantage over the Red Birds in the American association standings.

The Millers widened their margin of lead by swamping Toledo, 22 to 8, in the opener of a double-header and coming back with a 3 to 0 win over the Hens in the night cap.

Indianapolis hit a snag in Kansas City, the Indians taking the first contest, 6 to 5, in 12 innings and dropping the second, 11 to 8.

Divide Twin Bill
The Birds also split a twin bill with St. Paul, the Ohioans winning the opener, 4 to 1, only to watch the Saints push them around, 7 to 2, in the closer.

Only the Minnesota 6 o'clock law saved the Millers from defeat in the second game which went eight innings officially. Toledo scored five runs in the first of the ninth but the score was reverted to the eighth inning status because of the closing law.

In the opener, the Millers established a new hitting record for the season pounding out 26 hits.

where anything may happen. St. Louis lost ground when Paul Dean, subbing for Bill Walker in the ninth frame with the paths loaded, walked in the winning run. —Dizzy had beaten the Pirates in the opener.

Griffith Ball-Carrier

John Griffith, George Griffith's huddling son, will be given every chance to make good in the backfield of the high school team this fall. Coach Elmer Reger has intimate—Griffith's high-stepping has been lost as a line-man and he may be able to help a lot as a ball-toter. Reger's big jobs this fall will be to develop a kicker and a line.

Thomas Leads Again

This poll being conducted by the Chicago Tribune to select a coach for the all-star collegiate team is a hot one with as many votes being cast for coach as for players. Frank Thomas of the University of Alabama is leading by a short margin with Elmer Layden of Notre Dame second. Dr. C. W. Spears of Wisconsin third, Bernie Bierman of Minnesota fourth, Charles Bachman of Michigan State fifth, and Bo McMillen of Indiana sixth.

FRANK CASEY SETS RECORD

Frank Casey, former pro at Pickaway Country club, set a new course record at Snow Hill Country club, Wilmington, over the week-end that will probably stand for many years.

Casey traveled the course in 68, the previous record having been 67 established by Clem Welchman, Portsmouth pro, several years ago during an exhibition match.

Five birdies and an eagle were made by Casey in establishing the new record and his drives traveled from 225 to 275 yards.

A SMELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

When we eat too much, our food decays in our bowels. Our friends smell this decay coming out of our mouth and call it bad breath. We feel the poison of this decay all over our body. It makes us gloomy, grouchy and no good for anything.

What makes the food decay in the bowels? Well, when we eat too much, our bile juice can't digest it. What is the bile juice? It is the most vital digestive juice in our body. Unless 2 pints of it are flowing from our liver into our bowels every day, our movements get hard and constipated and 2% of our food decays in our 28 feet of bowels. This decay sends poison all over our body every six minutes.

When our friends smell our bad breath (but we don't) and we feel like a whipped tomato, don't use a mouthwash or take a laxative. Get at the cause. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills which gently start the flow of your bile juice. But if "something better" is offered you, don't buy it, for it may be a calomel (mercury) pill, which loosens teeth, gripes and seals the return in many people. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for. —24, 218 E. C.M. Co.

RELIEF GIVEN MANY VICTIMS IN LANCASTER

the homeless will sleep tonight. There are three streams coursing through this city, Hocking river, the largest, and Hunter's Run and Baldwin's Run. All hurried their banks, spreading destruction and misery.

In some West and South Lancaster homes the water stands three feet deep and debris is piled high in those areas.

Damage to crops in Fairfield, Hocking and counties to the south was so extensive it cannot even be estimated at this time.

Other Towns Hit
Rainfall was most severe here at Circleville, Jackson and Logan. Three Newark, O., women had a narrow escape when the swirling flood water lifted their automobile from the road near here. Rescuers saved them.

They were Mrs. Homer Simpson, her daughter-in-law and another woman whose name was not obtained. After obtaining dry clothing from the sheriff's wife, they proceeded to Newark.

A girl 17-year-old attempted to wade out of her flood-stricken home, was caught in the rushing waters and almost drowned. She was Vera Better. Stacks of wheat, picked up by the flood and swept against the girl, shoved her against a fence in a neighbor's backyard.

Autos Stalled
Automobiles by the hundred, were stalled in flood-swept streets of Lancaster and other Hocking Valley towns.

From Pomeroy, in Meigs-co. south of here, came word that farmers there suffered heavy losses also from Sunday's wind and rainstorm and by the flooding of farms by rampant creeks.

Several homes in Pomeroy were damaged when uprooted trees crashed against them.

COLUMBUS, July 29 Traffic on state route 31, the Lancaster-Logan road, at Rockbridge, Hocking-co., has been suspended by the flood, the state highway department announced today.

Construction at Rockbridge where the road is being re-located is under water.

Traffic is being detoured by way of State Route 37 at Bremen, Ohio.

XENIA, July 29 Unable to swim, Richard Mann, 14, son of William Mann, living south of Springfield, drowned Sunday in Little Miami river while attending a Sunday School picnic at Bryan State Farm, north of Yellow Springs. The boy waded into deep water, his body being recovered 30 minutes later by lifeguards at the CCC camp nearby.

DAYTON, July 29 Martin Kiser, 26, drowned in the Miami river last night while swimming with a party of friends.

Most the cheapen and paper money of Seattle, Washington, is W. H. Love, who with his son, Jerry, who accompanied by not surprising, Love finished 1,100 in the municipal contest by forming the feat in 16 seconds.

MELL AND DUNLAP TO AGAIN TANGLE?

Diehn Writes Trend in 11th District is Toward Such a Contest.

John F. Diehn, political writer for the Columbus Dispatch, sees a new Mell G. Underwood-Renick W. Dunlap contest for congress in the 11th district, a repetition of that of a year ago.

In his comment on the political situation in Ohio, Sunday, Diehn wrote the following concerning the Underwood-Dunlap "tangle":

"Down in the Eleventh congressional district the political winds seem to be blowing towards a repetition of the 1934 congressional battle Democratic Congressman Mell G. Underwood of New Lexington against Renick Dunlap of Kingston, former assistant secretary of agriculture in the Coolidge and Hoover administrations."

"On the Democratic side, friends of Underwood say that he is certain to seek reelection, but may again face opposition in the primary from former State Representative H. B. Welch of Logan, a legislative candidate last year.

"The Republicans are trying to consolidate their forces behind Dunlap for the nomination and the campaign, cheerleaders report. Dunlap was the nominee in 1934.

"The Eleventh district, however, is heavily Democratic and the Republicans admit they will have a real fight on their hands against Underwood. They, however, are banking on the anti 'new deal' sentiment to aid Dunlap's cause."

COUNTY ROADS

called upon to repair wires which suspended nearly 300 telephones in the eastern section of Fairway-co and in the Lancaster vicinity. The high winds blew down wires and poles while cutting trees did considerable damage.

The Southern Ohio Electric Co. had 55 street light poles and in the north end of the city. A tree fell over one line and the high wind did more damage. The street lights were out until 11 p.m. while repairs were being made.

At the height of the storm the fire bell tapped a single time, but Fire Chief Talbot Wise reported there was no fire, the storm causing the tapping.

Dr. H. B. Clarke, weather man for the last 25 years, reported that 24 inches of rain fell in about one hour. "I disclosed that the rain for July is the heaviest he can remember in his long experience," after Sunday's rain," Dr. Clarke reported, "there had been 11.5 inches of rain in July."

Scioto River Climbing
The Scioto river was at its 3-foot stage Monday morning and was still coming up.

Every stream in north-central Ohio was out of its banks. Hargus, Scioto, Salt, Cosque and all the others were booming. Salt creek covered Route 56 north of Lancaster. Ditching did considerable damage and caused many of the county's roads to be inundated.

The bridge over Salt creek and north of Laurelville was threatened by that stream but the water receded just as it seemed certain the bridge would be covered.

Many persons including a number of Circlevillians were stranded in the Hocking-co. cave district because they could not drive through water over Route 46. Others who tried to travel south during the evening were forced to turn back.

$500 on State Roads
Charles Mowery, superintendent of state highways in Pickaway-co., reported today that a survey disclosed that damage to state roads in the county would amount to about $500.

New Holland reported considerable damage to its property as a result of the storm. Several trees were down and chimneys were blown off several houses.

NOTED PUBLISHER OF FOSTORIA DIES

FOSTORIA, July 29. Death today had removed one of Ohio's most colorful journalistic figures in the passing of Roscoe Carle, 72, publisher of the Fostoria Daily Times.

Carle died in a Battle Creek, Mich., sanitarium from pneumonia which developed following two major abdominal operations.

Long prominent in Ohio Democratic circles, Carle was appointed postmaster here by President Wilson in 1913, serving until 1924. He represented Seneca-co. in the lower branch of the state legislature from 1901 to 1905.

Carle was known throughout new paper circles and in his community as "Cap," a nickname derived from his captaincy of the national guard company at Tiffin from 1902 to 1905.

MISS ALLEN BRUISED IN PLANE ACCIDENT

Mrs. Helen Allen, of Cincinnati, foster daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Crites, N. Court-st., is here visiting this week and recounting a nearly tragic experience of last Saturday.

She was an airplane passenger from Dallas, Texas, to Cincinnati, when the plane struck a tree and telephone pole while landing in Nashville, Tenn. The plane was damaged but none of its 14 passengers were seriously hurt.

The big transport was trying to land in a fog to take on more passengers.

Mrs. Allen suffered some bruising.

The homeless will sleep tonight. There are three streams coursing through this city, Hocking river, the largest, and Hunter's Run and Baldwin's Run. All hurled their banks, spreading destruction and misery.

In some West and South Lancaster homes the water stands three feet deep and debris is piled high in those areas.

Damage to crops in Fairfield, Hocking and counties to the south was so extensive it cannot even be estimated at this time.

Other Towns Hit

Rainfall was most severe here, at Circleville, Jackson and Logan. Three Newark, O., women had a narrow escape when the swirling flood water lifted their automobile from the road near here. Rescuers saved them.

They were Mrs. Homer Simpson, her daughter-in-law and another woman whose name was not obtained. After obtaining dry clothing from the sheriff's wife, they proceeded to Newark.

A girl 17-year-old attempted to wade out of her flood-stricken home, was caught in the rushing waters and almost drowned. She was Vera Better. Stacks of wheat, picked up by the flood and swept against the girl, shoved her against a fence in a neighbor's backyard.

Autos Stalled

Automobiles by the hundreds were stalled in flood-swept streets of Lancaster and other Hocking Valley towns.

From Pomeroy, in Maigs-co, south of here, came word that farmers there suffered heavy losses also from Sunday's wind and rainstorm and by the flooding of farms by rampant creeks.

Several homes in Pomeroy were damaged when uprooted trees crashed against them.

COLUMBUS, July 29.—Traffic on state route 31, the Lancaster-Logan road, at Rockbridge, Hocking-co, has been suspended by the flood, the state highway department announced today.

Construction at Rockbridge, where the road is being re-located is under water.

Traffic is being detoured by way of State Route 37 at Bremen, Ohio.

XENIA, July 29.—Unable to swim, Richard Mapp, 14, son of William Mapp, living south of Springfield, drowned Sunday in Little Miami river while attending a Sunday School picnic at Bryan State Farm, north of Yellow Springs. The boy waded into deep water, his body being recovered 30 minutes later by lifeguards at the CCC camp nearby.

DAYTON, July 29.—Martin Kiser, 26, drowned in the Miami river last night while swimming with a party of friends.

MELL AND DUNLAP TO AGAIN TANGLE?

Ehln Writes Trend in 11th District is Toward Such a Contest.

John P. Ehl, political writer for the Columbus Dispatch, sees a new Mell G. Underwood-Renick W. Dunlap contest for congress in the 11th district, a repetition of that of a year ago.

In his comment on the political situation in Ohio, Sunday, Ehl wrote the following concerning the Underwood-Dunlap feud:

"Down in the Eleventh congressional district the political winds seem to be blowing towards a repetition of the 1934 congressional battle—Democratic Congressman Mell G. Underwood of New Lexington against Renick Dunlap of Kingston, former assistant secretary of agriculture in the Coolidge and Hoover administrations."

"On the Democratic side, friends of Underwood say that he is certain to seek re-election, but may again face opposition in the primary from former State Representative H. B. Welch of Logan, a primary candidate last year."

"The Republicans are trying to consolidate their forces behind Dunlap for the nomination and the campaign, observers report. Dunlap was the nominee in 1934."

"The Eleventh district, however, is heavily Democratic and the Republicans admit they will have a real fight on their hands against Underwood. They, however, are banking on the anti 'new deal' sentiment to aid Dunlap's cause."

GOATS SEEK HAVEN IN OLD AUTOMOBILE

"Any port in a storm" is a seafaring term but two goats must have thought of the expression so they docked in the rear seat of an auto Sunday afternoon during the heavy rain.

The goats were the property of Mike Land who lives just west of Circleville on the Williamsport rd. During the rain they jumped into an old car Mike had parked on his property and enjoyed the rain peering out the rear window.

COUNTY ROADS

called upon to repair wires which suspended nearly 500 telephones in the eastern section of Pickaway-co and in the Laurelsville vicinity. The high winds blew down wires and poles while falling trees did considerable damage.

The Southern Ohio Electric Co. had 35 street lights burned out in the north end of the city. A tree fell over one line and the high wind did more damage. The street lights were out until 11 p. m. while repairs were being made.

At the height of the storm the fire bell tapped a single time, but Fire Chief Talmer Wise reported there was no fire, the storm causing the tapping.

Dr. H. R. Clarke, weather man for the last 25 years, reported that 2.4 inches of rain fell in about one hour. He disclosed that the rain for July is the heaviest he can remember in his long experience. 'After Sunday's rain,' Dr. Clarke reported, 'there had been 11.35 inches of rain in July.'

Scioto River Climbing

The Scioto river was at the 8-foot stage Monday morning and was still coming up.

Every stream in southeastern Ohio was out of its banks. Hargus, Seippo, Salt, Congo and all the others were booming. Salt creek covered Route 56 south of Laurelsville. Ditches did considerable damage and caused many of the county's roads to be inundated.

The bridge over Salt creek just north of Laurelsville was threatened by that stream but the water receded just as it seemed certain the bridge would be covered.

Many persons including a number of Circlevillians were stranded in the Hocking-co cave district because they could not drive through water over Route 36. Others who tried to travel south during the evening were forced to turn back.

$500 on State Roads

Charles Mowery, superintendent of state highways in Pickaway-co, reported today that a survey disclosed that damage to state roads in the county would amount to about $500.

New Holland reported considerable damage to its property as a result of the storm. Several trees were down and chimneys were blown off several houses.

Mrs. Vernon Peters, son, Mondell and daughters, Florence and Mary Nell returned to their home at Lacassine, Louisiana, Friday, after a week's visit here with her brother, Harry and Homer Fridley and other relatives and friend. The Peters family are former Ashville residents.

Berie E. Fellers, the Main-st news-dealer who has been seriously ill for the past month with a complication of ailment, was taken to Columbus, Monday, to the home of a niece, Mrs. Alsbaugh, where he hopes to recuperate. His business is being taken care of by his brother Ernest Fellers.

Woman to Return Facing Chicago Murder Charge

NEW YORK, July 29.—Evelyn Smith, former burlesque dancer, now bespectacled and middle-aged, was to be hurried back to Chicago today to face trial as the slayer of Ervin J. Lang.

The woman, who was picked up here over the week-end, almost begged police for an immediate return to the mid-western city to confront the chum who named her in the swamp slaying of Lang.

She is to appear in the police lineup at headquarters this morning and will then be taken to a supreme court justice who will sign her extradition papers. Then, accompanied by Chicago detectives, she will be taken by automobile to Newark airport to catch the 11:30 a. m. plane for Chicago.

Mrs. Smith, who was sought for several weeks after Lang's dismembered body was picked up, insisted she wanted no delay in getting back to Chicago. She is innocent, she declared, and sought only the chance to clear her name.

A dramatic scene is expected when Mrs. Smith faces her accuser, Mrs. Blanche Dunkel, Lang's mother-in-law, in Chicago. "I did not kill Ervin Lang," Mrs. Smith told detectives. "I last saw him at Mrs. Dunkel's home on June 30. I know that she hated him and was jealous of him. I know that she fought him bitterly for going out with other girls."

Mrs. Dunkel told a vastly different story. She said that she hired Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Smith's Chinese husband, Harry Junez, to get rid of Lang. She paid $500 for the job she declared.

"I got him up to Mrs. Smith's apartment the night of July 5 and we got him drunk," Mrs. Dunkel was quoted as saying by Chicago authorities. "Then I left. She told me later that she strangled him, and the next day cut his legs off and then threw the torso into the swamp and the legs on a lonely road in Ohio."

ROSS COUNTIAN'S SUIT THROWN OUT

By a process of elimination the $100,000 suit of Dan Coyner, Ross-co, against Judge W. M. McKenzie, Prosecutor Lester S. Reid, Justice of Peace W. T. McDougal and the State of Ohio, was stricken from the files by Judge Joseph Adkins in Chillicothe.

During the hearing of a motion filed by the prosecutor, Coyner was informed he could not sue the state without its consent, hold a judge liable for damages for an official act, or sue a justice of peace under the circumstances. With only the prosecutor left as a defendant Coyner said, "Just let 'er drop."

The suit grew out of a peace bond action.

Women Who Suffer

Women who plod through periodical pain as though they were born to suffer, are either old-fashioned or have not heard of VATONA.

Modern women know that periodic pain is as unnecessary as it is unnatural. It is a danger signal—a destroyer of beauty. Nature did not intend it so. Ask your doctor or druggist about VATONA—they recommend it because it is the only one-purpose corrective tonic—because VATONA is free from harmful drugs that affect the heart.
